

Getting Started

Steps in the undergraduate application process:

1. Submit to the Office of Admissions at Anderson University a completed Application for Admission form (all music majors must be accepted to Anderson University as well as the School of Music).
2. Submit your completed Music Admission Audition Form to the School of Music at Anderson University. This will open your file, put you in line for an audition and allow the undergraduate music studies office to assist you in the audition process.
3. Ask a music teacher (applied music teacher or high school music director) to complete and submit a recommendation form to the AU School of Music.
4. If you are a transfer student, contact the college(s) you have attended and have them send a transcript to the Office of Admissions, Anderson University.
5. Once your Audition Form is received, we will contact you about the specific time of your audition, interview, and testing.

In an effort to make the application process easier for applicants, we offer both hard-copy and electronic versions of the undergraduate audition form and recommendation form through the program Web site at www.anderson.edu/academics/music.

Applications and recommendations should be submitted to:
