

EQ-I Assessment for All New Students

Preparation is underway for the 2010-11 new student orientation. The information below is important for all new entering seminary students for Semester I, 2010-11.

All new students at the Anderson University School of Theology are required participate in an online assessment, The Bar-On Emotional Quotient Inventory (EQ-i). New students will receive a developmental report based on the EQ-i that is a valuable tool in your continued growth as a person and minister.

Prior to August 25, please go to the web link sent to you by the Office of Student Services. If you have not received this information and password via Email, please contact Mrs. Connie Allbaugh at clallbaugh@anderson.edu

The EQ-i is a 133-item assessment that requires no more than 15 to 20 minutes to complete. You should complete the entire assessment in one sitting. Please know that EQ-i results are treated with strict confidentiality. New students will work with Dr. Guy Brewer, D. Min., Ph. D., Associate Professor of Pastoral Theology, related to the results of his or her assessment.
